Selection of work

The works shown above are from a recent body of work and accurately represent the pieces I am currently producing - whether in my personal or commission work.

Most of my inspiration comes from the people and places around me which I love. Friends and family are typically the subjects in my portrait work; my favourite destinations - namely the yearly family holiday in Cornwall - inspire my other work.

A range of work can be viewed on my website and social media pages; commissions can be arranged on my website:

About me

I have been selected as a Royal Society of British Arts Scholar for 2015-16 and 2016-17, with work having been displayed in galleries in Woking and London.

I mostly work with portraits and use a variety of mediums, although this is typically acrylic or oil paint. Landscape pieces are typically done with pen and watercolour. I enjoy experimenting with techniques and mediums also, having had the chance to develop my skill set throughout my arts-based background.

I am currently studying Architecture (BSc) at the University of Bath. I will be developing my artistic technique over the next few years both alongside and in contrast to the work which will be incorporated into my degree work.
